

The Ball Brothers Biography

Anyone who thinks a Christian young person is “missing out” on something, has obviously never met the Ball Brothers. These brothers, Andrew, Daniel, and Stephen, are young, exciting and love to have good time doing what God has called them to do. “We like to have fun!” says Daniel. “No one told us siblings couldn’t be best friends.” The bond these brothers have is an integral part of their unique musical blend. Their youthful energy is apparent to all who meet them and enjoy their exciting live performances. The Ball Brothers showcase a creative confidence and intuitive grasp of harmony that would be rare in artists twice their age.

Central Illinois, where the guys grew up, is more known for flat farmland, than singers. Yet at an early age, The Ball Brothers began practicing the beautiful harmonies that would catapult them into the spotlight. When they began singing with their family. These young men entered into a strong tradition of family harmony groups in gospel music. However, The Ball Brothers bring their own youthful energy to these traditions. Creating a style that encompasses all that is great about the family groups of the past with their own unique sensibilities.

With their mix of new and old, The Ball brothers have great potential to appeal to a broad audience. They will surely attract young people with their exciting performances and older audiences will enjoy gospel harmony at its finest. No matter the age or musical preference, the Ball Brothers have a fresh sound that will appeal to everyone.

In addition to wowing listeners with their music and expanding their musical horizons, the Ball Brothers take pride in living their lives practicing what they sing. They have a calling from God to see souls touched and people encouraged through their music.

With their talent, energy, and the Lord behind them, the Ball Brothers can look forward to even greater recognition for their incredible talents. “The Ball Brothers are introducing the newest, freshest music in Gospel Music.” States Brian Hudson of Showcase Management. “When I started managing the Martins over ten years ago, I thought that I would probably never find another group with as good of vocal blend...I was wrong.” With praise such as this, one can expect the Ball Brothers will be a fixture in gospel music for many years to come.